Coaching for Success

Enhance your professional development through coaching

Experts agree that mental health and SEL (social and emotional learning) professional development for educators and youth-serving professionals is vital. Yet too often, staff receive this important training but struggle to implement what they've learned once they return to a school or class setting.

Coaching for Success is a two-year project that brings coaching directly into schools and youth-serving organizations to help nurture the personal and professional resilience of professionals as they address the myriad of social, emotional, and mental health needs of today's youth.

A unique aspect of this project is that on-site staff become the coaches. They have both existing relationships with their coachees, along with knowledge and proven experience in implementing mental health and SEL practices in an educational environment.
